UN • inhibited

. . . A year of change

We toughed it out the best we could — through painting and construction, the sticky Indian Summer and the upheaval of the administration. We saw the weeks pass without a break, we saw the chaos of Agora Days, we saw tears at seasons' end, and we heard shouts at deadlines met. We made it. Though the days seemed neverending at times, we'll miss them someday and fondly look back to the year when you and I were. . .uninhibited.

UNtamed

. . . Student Life

The school year of '91-'92 began with the Orientation Picnic and ended with the aptly named Disorientation Picnic. Activities galore made up what we call our STUDENT LIFE. From dances to plays and even in our personal affairs, Uni is an unbelievably large part of our lives. Some of us tend to chuckle at the term "Student Life," but most of us can attest to our busy lives. Between the hours of studying and classes, we participated in our other interests and even had a little fun. . .though we'd never admit it.

"I feel as if I live here. Uni is like a home. I feel like I have a family here."

— Phil Lin

Orientation Picnic Full of Firsts

The annual orientation picnic was at Carle Park for the first time on September 7th. Students participated in volleyball, football, swinging, playing on the merry-go-round, and eating hot dogs prepared by Chef Murphy. Though organizers Joyce Lee and Kelly Schrepfer were still preparing the Student Council sponsored event as students arrived, the picnic proved to be a success.

Sophomore Tristan Bolen took advantage of most of the activities offered. He said he "played with everyone and liked it." Even Dr. Meares, who made an appearance in the football game as defensive back, said of his first orientation picnic, "it's fun. . .relaxing." He also commented on Uni kids saying, "You're not well behaved."

Though most students questioned had a good time, some didn't. Thayer Preece said the picnic was "kinda boring." Some seniors found the afternoon sad, it being their last orientation picnic at Uni. Amy Wen said, "It's so nostalgic." Heidi van Es agreed: "It really makes me wonder where I'll be next year." Senior Mojgone Azemun said she was having too much fun to ponder her future. She said,"I thoroughly enjoyed myself. This was a damn fine picnic."

Chef Kian brings home the bacon and cooks it as well, as his friends observe his skills in awe. Unfortunately, Alex tries to employ these newly-learned tactics.

David obviously dislikes Ho Sun, the cool yearbook photography editor, and he aims for the super-expensive camera in hopes of scaring Ho Sun away. If he only knew how tough Ho Sun is. . .

Hammin' it up for the camera, Anni dreams of her future as a movie star and Uni High's glamour girl.

Musical Relies on Underclass Talent

It's a bird, it's a plane. . .

This year's fall musical, "With a Wink and a Nod and a Bow to the Times," was written and directed by Drama teacher Laura Reneau. Set in a high school, the Uni performers recreated a school preparing for a musical set in the depression era. The play within the play encounters objections from the PTA and parents.

This year's play was different than those in previous years. For instance, more underclassmen had roles and solos than in a typical Uni production. The cast was made up of nearly 30 students, considerably larger than most productions. The parts were fairly evenly distributed and gave a chance for everyone going to the play to see the diverse range of talents of those involved. Cast member Jyana Sunshine Gregory commented, "it was good to see all of the young talent at Uni, and I had a lot of fun. The play was really creative. I think Laura did a good job." As Amy Parker observed, "It looked like both cast and audience had a great time."

The muses try to console Jyana.

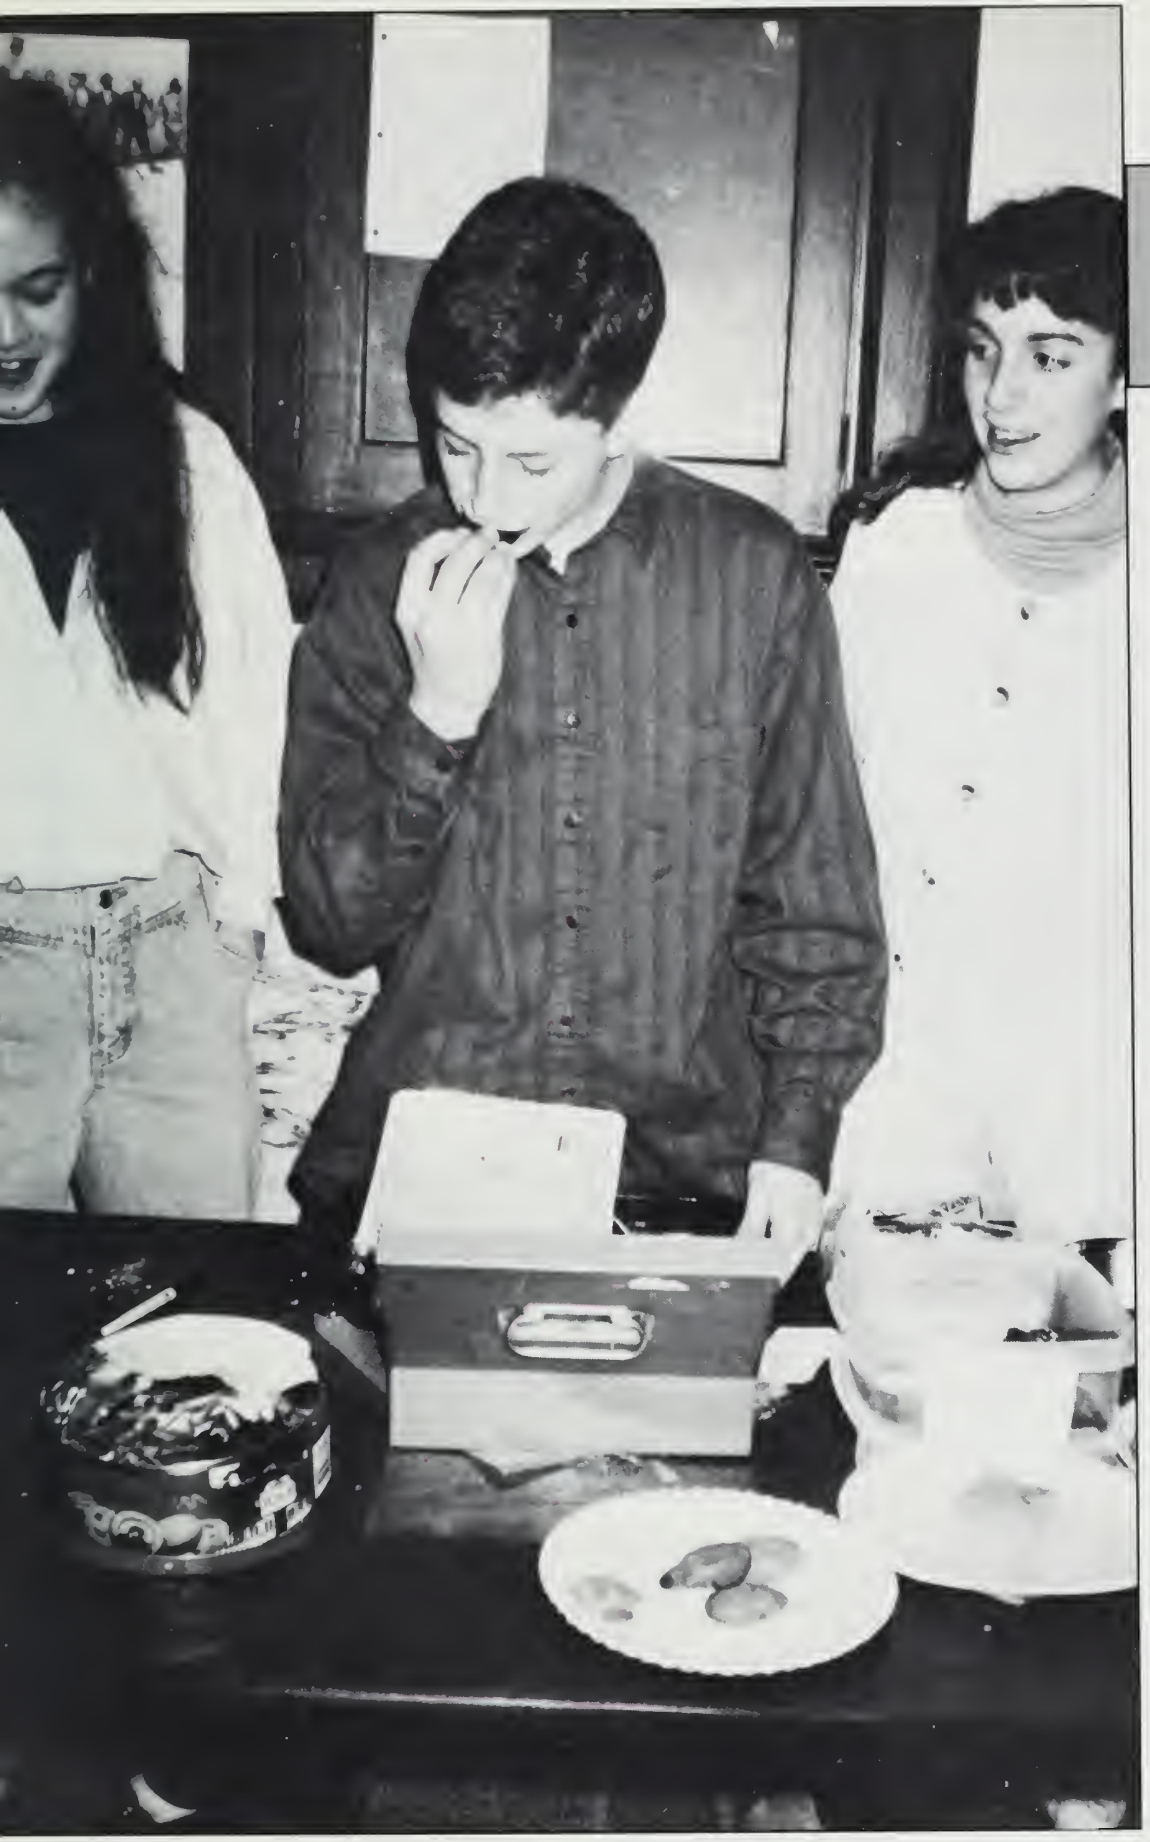
Student Play Has Strong Message

The Student Production, And The Dead Man Spoke, was written and directed by senior Eric Phillips and co-directed by Isobel Stasheff. The story begins as two rogues find a man who has hung himself. The dead man speaks, telling them that he has killed himself over rejected love. Eric wrote the play as part of the Creative Writing class he took as a junior. He revised the play over the summer and submitted it to Student Council as a candidate for the Student Production. The cast and crew of the play spanned the entire class range, from subs to seniors. Such company bondage was never seen before: ace bandages, Cheralyn, POT, wigs and tights, top ten lists, broken swords, hot chocolate, and liquid latex forever!

UNordinary

. . . Organizations

Organizations continued to be the school's favorite pastime. During lunch, or even after school, students could be found participating in club activities around school. With the Recession in full swing, clubs tried hard to raise their necessary funds. Luckily, Student Council was able to provide money for "helpless clubs with no socially redeeming values," as Mr. Stone described them. Organizations filled up transcript space and provided fun, fun, fun!



"At Uni there are so many different types of organizations. You are able to learn so many new things about different topics and other people." — Cindy Wang

Student Council UNprecedented

The Student Council, under the leadership of President Phil Lin, Vice-President Joyce Lee, and Secretary Mojgone Azemun, dealt with issues involving student welfare. Money, or rather the lack of money, was a hot topic as Student Council scrutinized its budget. The Council ran a concession stand at the school dances to compensate for the absence of White Hen Pantry, which proved to be "hectic and frustrating sometimes but appreciated by the students," said Mojgone Azemun. They also aided the Physical Education Department by holding a schoolwide election to choose a new mascot to replace the Illinek.

Students and Faculty

UNite

This year the Student Faculty Advisory Committee, or S.F.A.C., was headed by Assistant Director Joel Crames, Dorothy Fuller, Chris Thompson, and David Stone. Student representatives included Student Council Executive Adam Wengert, junior Joey Friedman, senior James Chang, sophomore Ellen Eischen, and freshman Hannah Koenker, joinined the faculty advisors every Friday during lunch for discussions about important timely school issues and concerns. S.F.A.C.'s overall goal was to improve student-faculty-administration communications. Some of the topics discussed included the student work load, the student council-run concession stand at dances, the changes in the Winter Party, and censorship of senior yearbook quotes.

. . .And the Winner Is. . .

The Elections Committee, led by Jenny Kang, Kelly Schrepfer, and Tracy Sonka, was in charge of publicizing class and executive student council elections, as well as accepting nominations. They also supervised the elections held during lunch in Room 109, tallied the votes for winners, and made sure run-offs were scheduled in the event of ties.

Yearbook and Gargoyle Spread the News

The yearbook staff was not immune to the changes in Uni High this year. The organization was tranformed into an eigth hour class to "save time and money," according to co-editor Mojgone Azemun. "We have a limited budget, and since we're still in debt we had to make changes." Co-editor Heidi van Es added, "in the past couple of years a lot of costly mistakes were made. . .this way we can get organized better and make our deadlines for once." Making the club a course was not the only change. The staff also switched to computers for nearly the entire production of the book, said co-editor Amy Parker. "By using the IBM's we're able to see whole sections of the book before finalizing anything." This enabled the staff to accurately reflect and record the happenings of 1991-1992.

In conjunction with Yearbook, the Gargoyle also attempted to report the year in events through their bi-monthly issues. Led by co-editors Rachel Lebenson, Caty Steigmann, and Dana Wagner, the staff covered stories ranging from the resignation of history teacher Joanne Wheeler to highlights in Uni sports. Under the supervision of Jennifer Burns, Journalism reporters aimed at "making students aware of what's happening," according to reporter Bahareh Harandi. Staff member Amy Wen added, "I got to get the inside word on a lot of stuff before regular students. . .I didn't just have to do dry stories. . .I got to write what I thought about school issues."

Unique's New System

Unique "brings together works of talented people in the school. It helps peoples' gifts surface and be compiled," according to Jenny Kang, Unique's co-editor. Unique instated a new grading system with a four point scale. Therefore, "people had to decide if the the art piece was good or bad. There was no middle," co-editor Erin Reep said. Jenny Kang developed new grading sheets so that the staff could critique submissions better. The sheets provided spaces for comments so that artists could resubmit their work with revisions and get a higher grade, according to Leslie Lundeen, another co-editor. The categories included imagery and line formation for poetry, theme for short stories, originality for all art forms and others for the various kinds of submissions. Also, Unique added color for an extra flourish.

Etymologists Untangle Words

Etymological Society "got people together who enjoy talking about words," Etymological Society's co-founder Judy Clifton said. The members of Etymological Society spent their Friday meetings during lunch talking about the definitions of words, discussing the etymolgy of words, and playing word games, co-founder Anna Pervuhkin said. The members of Etymological Society were so proud of their club that they bought uniforms consisting of beanies "to encourage club spirit," according to Judy Clifton. Ms. Lauglin thought that Judy and Anna wanted to show that they were not ashamed of rheir club and displayed ir by wearing something "nerdy." Etymological society compiled a scrap book consisting of unusual words or words with interesting uses and articles discussing languages. Members pictured above: Sponsor R. Laughlin, S. Baunsgard, A. Students For A Better World

Continue Efforts

Mojgone and Cathy returned from summer vacation ready to make the world a better place. The group prepared meals for Matthew House, continued the tradition of Captain Tidy, and sent toys and supplies to a preschool in South Africa. At the semester, when their term was over, Elizabeth M. and Ellen E. enthusiastically took charge. Elizabeth light-heartedly said she "could save not only our school but the entire planet." However, on a more serious note, she said, "I think the change of leaders went smoothly, and we will continue to make meals for Matthew House, create new recycling programs, and (do) many other projects."

Music Program Grows Steadily

Most people involved with Uni's music program felt that orchestra, chorus and madrigals had a great year. Although Rick Murphy found eighth hour sometimes difficult, he was pleased with the size of chorus and the balance in orchestra. The size of these classes grew this year, with 60 in orchestra, 90 in chorus and 17 in madrigals. Rick Murphy said he hopes that in the future, there could be two seperate choirs, one singing classical music and the other singing "lighter" pieces. Despite the budget crunches this year, Murphy felt that enthusiasm was as high as ever.

Chess, Hiss, and Ping-Pong Clubs Rock the Halls

Peter "Cocky" Chou hams it up at the chess meet

The chess club, comprised of about 20 members, devoted time during lunch on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays to stretch their intellectual limits playing this age-old game. Under the direction of Chris Butler, the members "greatly improved their skills" and enjoyed themselves in the process.

Members of HISS (Historical Simulation Society) spent their Wednesday afternoons playing simulation games of historical eras. The five history enthusiasts involved themselves in two games: Civilization, which is "about the rise of civilization in the Mediterranean and the Near East" and Brittania, a game that "covers the history of Britain from the Roman conquest to the Norman conquest," according to sponsor Mr. Butler.

Ping Pong club met in Uni Gym during fifth hour on Tuesdays, and eighth on Fridays to practice their skills. The group was large enough (30 members) to conduct an intramural ping-pong tournament, with the winning team receiving $20 cash. Members of the club also taught two Agora Days classes which were "primarily for training and improvement," according to sponsor Mr. Bergandine. "Everyone always has a good time," Bergandine stated.

Organization Leads to Successful Agora Days

Agora Days finally took place after the school procrastinated and turned in eighty outlines on the last day. With the leadership of Joyce Lee and Amy Wen, Agora Days went flying through with classes like Search For Yourself, "Tackle" Football, and important classes (i.e. Yearbook) that happened all day long. Both Joyce and Amy agreed that "our hard work finally paid off with a great week of classes." Deep emotions were evoked in many students as Agora Days was described as being "refreshing," "relaxing," and "intellectually stimulating." Freshman Tim Monahan adored Waters of Babylon because "I like the historical simulation." Juniors Kian Fatemi, Alex Betts, and Eddie Lee thought it was "cool to teach a class." It was nice for the student body to take a nice break from school and studying.

Science Society Leads Area

Science Society, comprised of students from all classes, defended Uni's honor at numerous scholastic competitions. These contests included Science Olympiad, Science Bowl, and JETS. All members worked hard, brushing up their knowledge on subjects ranging from rocks and fossils to genetics. In addition to the "basic" quiz-type format in competition, Science Society members also faced contests challenging them to build the fastest mousetrap vehicle or devise the softest landing contraption for a dropped egg. While these may not seem like applicable, useful skills to acquire, Science Society "makes you think. The problem-solving skills will come in handy later on," according to senior member Ho Sun Hwang. Their hard work led to a first place finish at the Regionals of Science Olympiad.

PACE Joins Uni Clubs

PACE (Politics and Current Events) enjoyed its inaugural year as a club at Uni in 1991-1992. Founded by Eric Phillips and sponsored by Mr. Butler, PACE attempted to address current affairs and politics on a local, national, and international level. The club met every Friday and informed its members of the hottest topics. It certainly was an informative and educational club, and Uni's lucky to have this new organization.

Ms. Newman points out where the Latin Club will venture in Italy.

Language Clubs Active

The language clubs tantalized the school another year with their awesome bake sales. New activities abounded in the clubs, as the clubs hoped to raise money for various events, including field trips.

German Club, headed by seniors Dana Wagner and Christie Curran, raised money for future field trips to the German part of Chicago. The German Club also enjoyed an exchange student from Germany during the beginning of the school year. Activities included German Black Forest Cherry Cake sales and German potato salad sales. No photos were available.

Russian Club's new activity was a Russian choir which sang wonderful Russian folk songs and traditional Slavic tunes. They also held their annual spring banquet to support exchanges and class trips. No photos were available.

Latin Club, led by president Andrea Peck, held lasagna sales to support trips to Chicago museums and the trip to Rome during Agora Days. The trip lasted seven days, and the group remained in Rome for most of the week, with an excursion to Naples for a day.

Math Club Participation Dwindles

The past year was not a prosperous one, in terms of attendance at the weekly meetings, for Math Club. Participation at the weekly Tuesday meetings during 8th hour was low, but participation in the contests remained high. Contests included the AHSME, ICTM, and MathCounts (for Subbies only). When asked why participation was low, Che-Wei Wang responded that "people just don't seem to have the time." Showings at the contests did not to seem to suffer much, though; Uni remained at the top of the team contests with several individual winners. The underclassmen participated in Math Club more actively than the upperclassmen, as they enjoyed working on challenging math problems over lunch hour.

Cheerleaders: A New Look

The cheerleaders of 1991-1992 brought a new look to the Uni basketball games. With new uniforms and cheers, they dazzled the crowds and never lacked enthusiasm. New uniforms, consisting of tie-dyed shorts and shirts, also added to the unique look of the cheerleaders. According to cheerleader Sang Lee, "we wanted to be original. We didn't like last year's uniforms, and we wanted to break the stereotype (of traditional cheerleaders with traditional uniforms)." Sang also added that they learned many new lifts and cheers this year to help add to the enthusiasm of the crowds. In spite of these additions to cheerleading, the motivation for partipating remained the same. As Jenne Glish said, "It's fun."

Stimulating lounge conversation abounds at all times.

Lounge Causes Controversy

Glancing into the lounge, it appears to simply be a hangout for Uni students. Some are playing cards, reading, talking, playing fooseball, or simply lounging. A wild mix of music echoes into the hallway. However, the lounge was the center of many controversies. Students continued to debate the continuance of handprints on the wall. Said Lounge Commitee President and senior Mojgone Azemun, "some students feel that we should paint over old handprints so that our class can put our handprints all together." In mid-February, an unknown person broke into the lounge and painted the entire lounge floor red, spraypainted black dots and stenciled in the words: "Censor this — Pogo." This cost the school nearly $700, initiating discussions about closing the lounge and turning it into a classroom. It was an exciting year for the lounge, and it may have been its last.

. . . Sports

The majority of the Uni High student body looked to athletics to unwind and spend time with their friends while pursuing their individual goals. Whether it was swimming or running, basketball, soccer, or track, students took to the "field" either to cheer on the Illineks, or push for the win. 1991-1992 sports kept the spirit alive and the stands packed.

UNI GIRLS RUN TO STATE & CAPTURE THIRD PLACE

Puny Uni? Yeah right. The girls' cross-country team won all of their dual meets, invitationals, and even regionals. They went on to place third at both sectionals and at state. How many runners at other schools can boast of their season's highlight as "being ranked number one?" The girls' season was "intense and full of ups and downs," said Co-Captain Amy Parker. In between their rigorous training, they had time for taking truck rides, going on ice cream runs, and driving around in circles. Parker thought the team was the "hardest working cross-country team that (she has) ever been on." Team member Cindy Wang thought the season was "hard" yet "exhilerating" while fellow team member Nadine Nicholson will always remember "the pack."

Pillow fights at Amboy, facing bad weather, driving in circles, it seemed as if the boys' cross-country team didn't do any running. But they did run, and when they did it was not easy. They ran through "the blinding rain," according to team member Alyx Parker, due to bad weather at meets. The boys finished in the top ten at six of their nine meets, including a second place finish at regionals. Peter Folk found it exciting just to be "on the team." Team co-captain Chris Kelly must have run too hard because he thought it was neat when "Das got third at state." The team was satisfied with their best season in recent history and next year, they will once again,"wear the tights for Laurel."

UNprecedented Number of Soccer Wins Highlights the 1991-1992 Season

The 1991 soccer team had a record breaking season. They broke the 1987 record of 9 wins in a home game against Mattoon. They were down 0-2 at the half and came back to win the game 3-2. Co-captains Dave Das and Brian Frizzell commented on the game, "it was nice to finish our senior year with a comeback victory against Mattoon." Coach Scott remarked, "the strengths of this team were great leadership from the upperclassmen, toughness, ability to work together for a common cause, freshmen and sophomores being able to contribute immediately, and the spirit of Uni High soccer." The tradition of the Uni soccer spirit continued as former Uni player, Doug Jolly, along with the father of Steve and Jeff, Colin Thorn, returned to help coach the team. Senior Jason Wolf commented that they were extremely helpful and "very valuable." The team finished the season with 12 wins and 6 losses. Freshman Jeff Thorn said, "we had a lot of fun." Coach Scott summed up the season saying he was, "very happy with the way we played this season. We got the most out of what we were given."

Swimmers Pull to Great Improvements

The swim team, a.k.a "The Peppa Club," trained hard this year. They had hard workouts, swimming lots of yardage, three mornings a week. The other two mornings of the week they lifted weights, with less strenuous practices in the afternoon. The upperclassmen turned in consistent performances, and the underclassmen improved tremendously throughout the season. The team capped off the season with a terrific sectional meet. Aside from some injuries halfway through the season, the team placed seventh at the sectional meet. The girls still managed to have fun, however, as the season was regarded as, "my favorite year in swimming," according to senior Heidi van Es.

Subbie B-ball and X-Country Reach New Heights

The subbie basketball teams, divided into a boy's A and B team and a girl's team, worked hard and improved during their respective seasons. Mr. Murphy and alumnus Doug Jolly coached the boys' teams, while Alumni Lynn Peck and Marsha Moore coached the girls' team. Moe Kyin thought the girls' teams really had "team spirit and hustled." Dan Murphy, a starter for the boys' A team, agreed, saying, "we're very good at teamwork." Ted Yulun, another starter for the boys' A team, thought the team consisted of "a bunch of good players." Steven Nafziger, also a boys' A team starter, said, "we'll be the best basketball team Uni has ever seen as seniors." Christina Garcia, a player on the girls' team, put it most simply when she said, "we're awsome."

Subbie cross-country continued on for another year with three lone runners on the team, Anne-Marie Cziko, Matt McClintock, and Chris Gorski. They participated in regionals and two team members went on to compete at the state meet. Anne-Marie placed second at regionals. "I didn't like morning practices, and I got nervous before meets. Still, I'm planning to join Cross-Country again next year," said Anne- Marie.

A Building Year for Girls' J.V.

The 1991 girls' junior varsity went through many changes this year. According to head coach Sally Walker, "We had more girls go out this year than in years past. It was nice to have such a large team because it will really help next year's varsity."

In addition to having 16 girls go out, the team also had a new coach. Faculty member Karen Hellyer took the place of past J.V. coach Josie Todd. Hellyer was pleased with the improvements made by the team and is confident that with another year of experience the girls will have an even better season next year.

The girls on the team agreed. Said junior Tracy Sonka: "We were able to learn the basics of basketball in a really fun way. And now that we have them down, it will only make us better for varsity."

The JV posted a 4-11 season, ending the year with a "very strong game at Cissna Park," said Amy Parker.

Boys' Junior Varsity Builds for 1993

Tony Roth returned this year to coach the 1992 boys' junior varsity basketball team with the help of volunteer coach Tom Caulfield. The boys started off the season "on a bad note," according to freshman Tim Monahan. Monahan went on to say that "there was plenty of raw talent, but most of the season was spent reviewing fundamentals." Steve Thorn added, "I think the team will be much better next year. We've had some time to play together and build some team chemistry." This team unity was reflected in two victories over Champaign Judah Christian, making the team "twin-city champs in Coach Scott's eyes." Though they had trouble in the beginning, the J.V. ended the season, pulling their record up to 10 wins and 8 losses.

Girls' Varsity Finds Edge

Coach Sally Walker was "pleased and surprised" with her 1991 girls' varsity basketball team. Walker said, "this is the first time in many years that I can actually say this team met it's full potential. We pulled together and won some tough ball games." Finishing the season 14-11, Walker boasts this year's team as the fourth most winningest girls' varsity team in history. The success of the team was attributed to the close team effort and the leadership of seniors Mojgone Azemun, Cyndi Liebovich, Amy Parker, and Andrea Peck. Parker, co-captain with Peck, led team rebounding and scoring. She also was a recipient of the McDonald's All Area Award for her 31 point effort in a Uni High win over the Oakland Lady Oaks. The highlight of the season according to Cyndi Liebovich was Senior Night where the varsity topped Bement — "We were down at the half, but we came back and smeared them. I was pretty nervous, but in the last quarter a bunch of their girls fouled out and they only had four girls on the court."

Boys' Varsity Stays Determined

Boys' Varsity basketball team "had a rough season." Sophomore Jason Rogers commented,"We had a lot of talent, but we just couldn't come together as a team." Team talent included that of seniors David Borgeson, Dave Das, Brian Frizzell, Chris Kelly, and Jason Wolf. However, Coach Tom Scott added,"our younger players needed experience but they were influential in our play. . .especially Joel (Jacobson) and (Tim) Monahan. They'll be ready for next year with the effort they're putting in."
This effort carried through to a Senior Night upset of Decatur Christian. Though Uni was down by 11 at the half, they came back to win it 55-48.

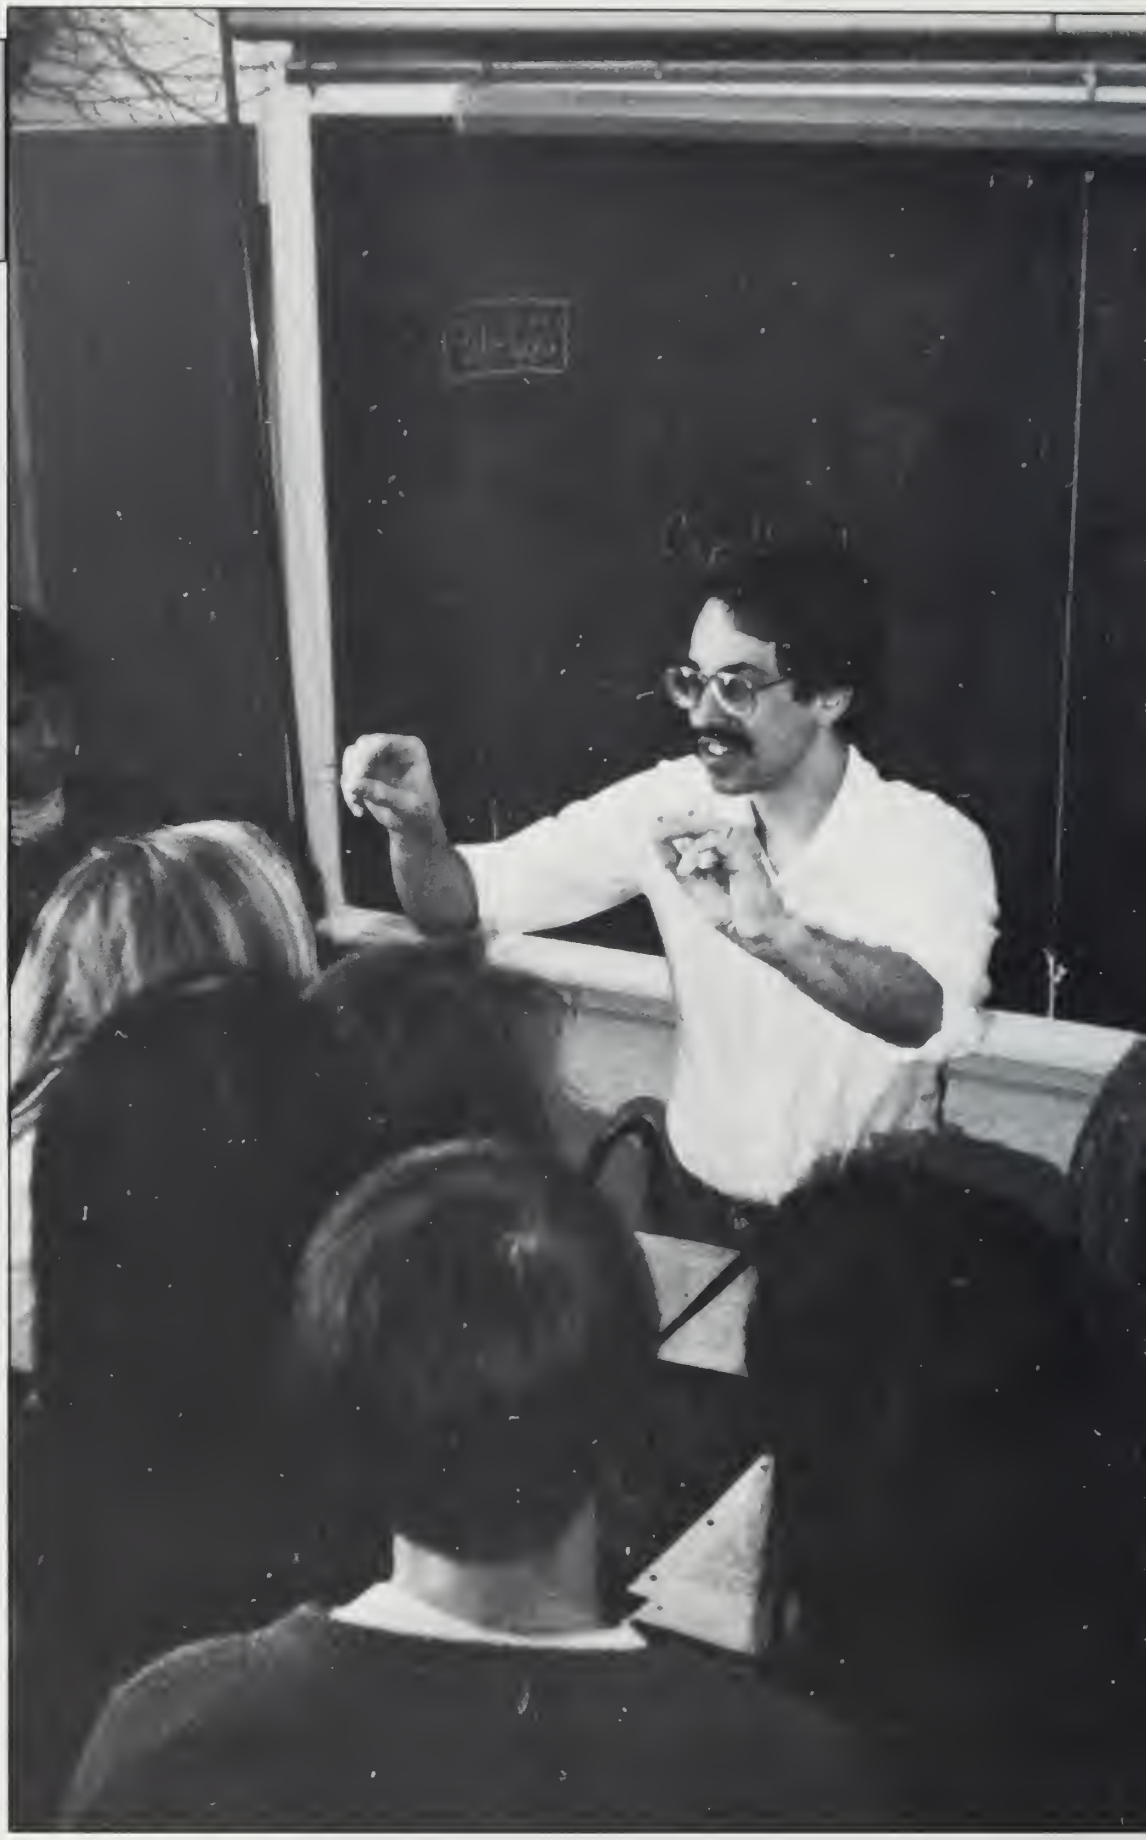
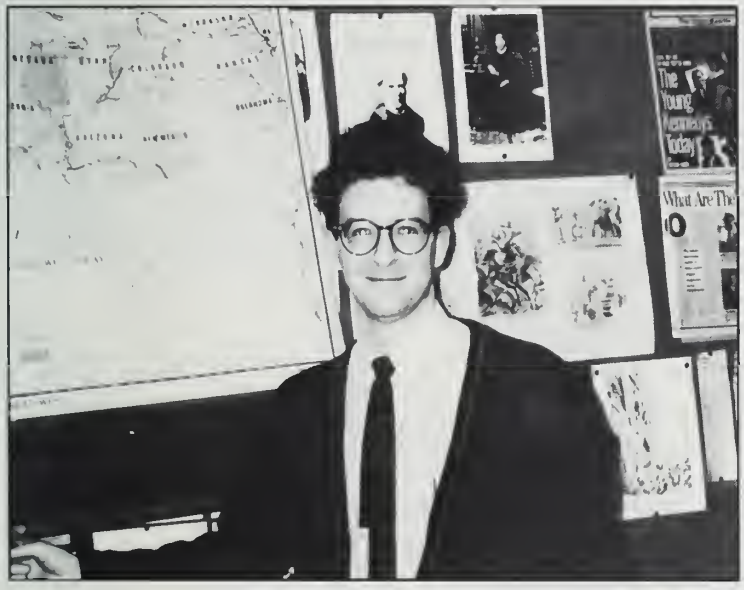
"The faculty of Uni High is a diverse group in which everyone is rather intense and individualistic."
— Audrey Wells

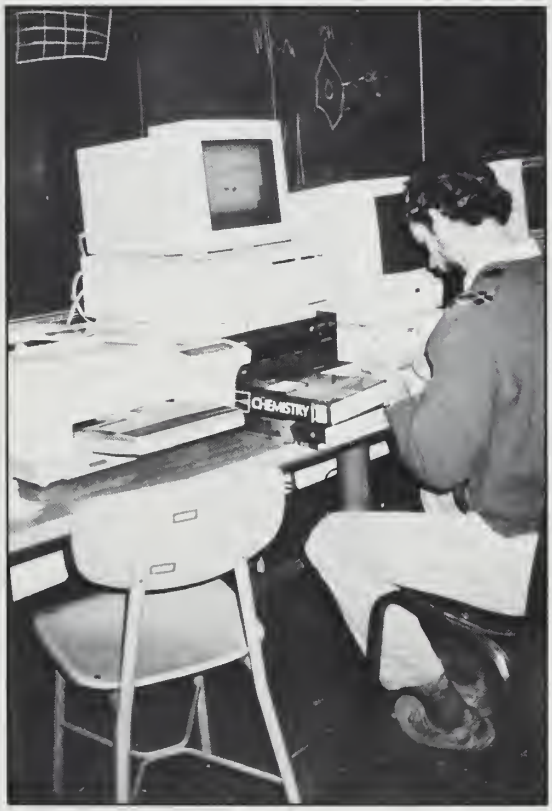


UNderstanding

. . . Faculty

The staff of Uni High kept the school together. With their effort and care, students found meaning in Shakespeare and logic in basic mathematics. Teachers taught the material, the Administration kept students on track, and the office staff made sure everyone made it to class on time, but they all also joked around, gossiped in the halls, and sometimes they took the time to listen. . .and that's what made the difference.





UNIVERSITY H.S. LIBRARY

HENRY MEARES JOINS ADMINISTRATION AS NEW PRINCIPAL

The new principal, Dr. Henry Meares, started the year with what he described as "a hearty, warm welcome" from students and faculty alike. He looked forward to "interacting with people" in a school situation that is "different than what (he) has been accoustomed to at public schools.." Dr. Meares hoped to deal with the budget crisis by looking at new resources around the U of I. He planned to do this by building a "stronger network across the university campus" to get money for the school. Supporting Meares was assistant director Joel Crames with his new office on the second floor, Randy Musselman who helped deal with money problems, Ms. Gutowski who kept alumni involved with the school, and the ever-friendly and resourceful secretaries, Barb Aschenbrenner and Cathy Eades.

As far as other major events affecting the office, the school installed an elevator for handicapped access, and the office had to be remodeled as a result. Though the construction made the office "awfully noisy" according to Barb, she thought the elevator was worth the trouble to have handicapped access to the upper floors.

COUNSELING REDUCED TO TWO

Two counselors handled the counseling office this year, instead of the three in years past. Jeff Smith was both the junior and senior class counselor, and he also took over the position of college counselor following Joan Levy's retirement at the conclusion of the 90/91 school year. The position of College Counselor, which was cut for financial reasons, concerned Mr. Smith because of the added responsibilty to his job. He hopes to have the college counselor position reinstated so, "people don't fall through the cracks." He kept busy helping the seniors in their college quests, keeping student records, and acting as an academic/social counselor.

Dean Davis Smith was subbie, freshman, and sophomore counselor, dealing primarily with their academic and social concerns. She was also a PFO representative and handled the PSAT and career development programs. Lori Baker, the secretary for both the counseling department and Mr. Crames, handled things such as locker notes and, said Lori, "kept all the counselors in line."

English Remains Unpredictable

The English teachers decided to take a stance on multi-culturalism by adding new books to the curriculum. Journalism and Freshman English teacher, Jenny Burns, said the department added the novels to give Uni literature a more diversified base.

Dorothy Fuller, Sophomore English and Creative Writing teacher, added The Dispossessed, the first science fiction novel in Uni curriculum. Adele Suslick, taught the sub-freshmen, while adding the Joy Luck Club to the Senior English curriculum to teach about the "Asian-American experience," said department-head Audrey Wells, who taught Sub-freshman English and Social Advocacy.

New novels weren't the only surprises. Senior Debates continued after almost being replaced with a persuasive speech program.

Students Find UNimaginable Advances in Social Studies

Every student in a Social Studies class using text books noticed the "new" stickers on their covers. Teachers Barbara Wysocki, Joanne Wheeler, and Phillipa Kaplan attempted to improve the curriculums with updated books.

Changes in the department also targeted course concepts. Far East units were added to Western Civilization to make the curriculum more multicultural. Also, Ms. Kaplan received a grant to build software for sophomore geography. Mr. Butler opted to make improvements as well. He added a unit on Chinese history to his class plan in a format he described as,"the same, old, boring flowchart stuff."

Social Advocacy was another course that underwent alterations. The class nearly doubled in size and spawned into a full year. Despite these changes, it remained basically the same as in past years. Questions such as: "What marks a healthy society?, Who or what creates culture?, Is a government responsible for the people in its country?, How do you define yourself?," continued to be probed by the students. Guest speakers and field trips educated the class and every class member was required to participate in "Social Advocacy in Practice." This meant students volunteered in the community in agencies which ranged from the Women's Emergency Shelter to Our Gang Daycare Center.

Another class which attempted to combine two schools of thought was Ms. Kaplan's. She attempted to establish a cross-curriculum with Dorothy Fuller's English class. African and Latin American music, poetry, and, of course, history were an integral interaction between the two courses. Ms. Kaplan also tried to extend an outreach program and attended a conference in San Antonio, TX in February.

Foreign Language UNdergoes Changes

The Foreign Language department faced many changes with the addition of German teacher Paul Weilmuenster and Russian teacher Maria Wolkanowski. Mr Weilmuenster, who taught German I through IV, found Uni different from other schools where he had been. In future years, Mr. Weilmuenster hopes to develop a student exchange with a German school.

The new Russian teacher, Maria Wolkanowski, taught Russian II and IV. She emphasized verbal and comprehension skills in her classes more than has been done in previous years.

Also added this year was Japanese II, the second phase in the transformation of Japanese into a four year program. Lone Japanese teacher Chris Thompson worked on an exchange program in the Japanese Language Teacher's network, an international network for the communication of Japanese teachers.

Diane Loyet, teacher of Russian I and III, replaced Ms. Bernhard in the language lab. There was no exchange with the Physical Technical School in Leningrad due to the small number of Russian students, but the exchange will resume in future years.

With no changes in the French program, teachers Carol Bond, Severine Arlabosse, and Alain Fresco kept on teaching students the "language of love."

Francis Newman, the sole Latin teacher, was "excited" about the Latin trip to Rome planned to occur during Agora Days.

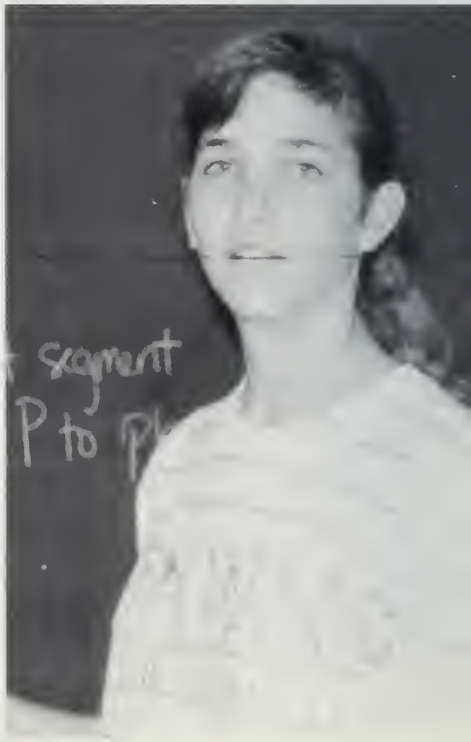
CALLAHAN PROVIDES "UNIQUE" ADDITION TO MATH DEPARTMENT



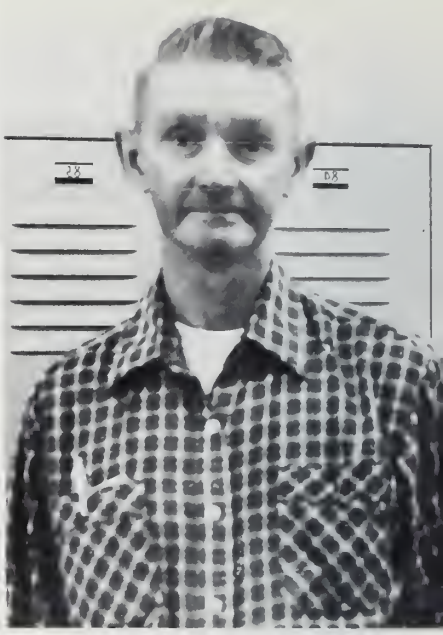
After the loss of Calculus and Geometry teacher Debra Woods, Susan Callahan joined the Math Department. Ms. Callahan traded in her job as Sydney the Koala at the San Diego Zoo to teach Uni students Calculus, Accelerated Calculus, and Geometry. "She's enlightened and creative. She makes Geometry a fun learning experience," said sophomore Geometry student Elizabeth Murphy.

Ms. Callahan joined fellow math teachers Pat McLaughlin, Elizabeth Jockusch, and Carol Castellon in their strive for excellence in mathematics. Ms. Jockusch said she will always remember this year as "the year of the elevator." As for changes in the Math Department, Pat hopes to have "more classes 8th period and on the 4th floor so that we can be more like Mr. Murphy."

SCIENCE EXCITED OVER CHANGES

The science department went through a series of changes. Mr. Stone taught two sections of Advanced Biology and one of Intro-Biology, while Ms. Lu took over two Intro-Biology classes. "It would be nice if everybody thought biology was beautiful because it is," said Ms. Lu. Physics continued to be taught by Ms. Asbell-Clark, and Mr. Bergandine amazed the sophomores, juniors, and seniors with the wonders of chemistry. Students spent a considerable amount of time in the computer lab. Why? Mr. Bergandine explained: "For the first year we're using a supercomputer networked with NCSA computers." The students use the computers to better understand the fundamentals of chemistry. Said student Ellen Eischen, "It's really cool to watch the experiments on the screen." Ms. Morris, department head, taught subbies the proper method to write scientific labs and test products. In addition, she gave the background knowledge necessary for future Uni High courses.

BYTE out of Grime!



John Turner kept Uni clean, despite the daily student chaos. The janitorial staff was supplemented by five Uni students, along with a few U of I students. Junior Yulun Yang, Seniors Sharad Satsangi, Cyndi Liebovich, Nadine Nicholson, and Phil Lin were employed to wash dishes, wipe tables, and organize supplies in the kitchen, along with taking down old signs around the school and cleaning lounge.

Computer Science teacher, Peter Kimble, again taught freshmen the basics of computer history and programming. They went on the annual trip to Chicago, where the freshmen followed Word Perfect clues to win assorted prizes. On the way home, the group stopped for a "byte" to eat.

For the more adventurous students, there was always Mr. Kimble's advanced computer class: Pascal. The group built on their basic knowledge of computer language to learn the computer variant of the Language of Love.

P.E. Department UNbeatable

With this year's budget cuts, even the P.E. Department had to make adjustments. A special fund was started for parents to donate money specifically to the athletic program. Athletic Director Sally Walker explained that efforts were made to "make cuts behind the scenes," so the actual sporting events would not be affected.

P.E. teachers, Al Ledgin, Tom Scott, and Bonnie Moxley, made the sports classes "more exciting" by adding flag football, along with intense fun during some old favorites, including pickle ball, volleyball, and swimming. For another year the Fitness Program continued to make a healthy impact and sponsor the Uni 5K run.

At Kenney Gym Pool, Jyana looks devilish in the pool while Kian celebrates his water volleyball score.

Fine Arts In Action

According to conductor Richard Murphy, the orchestra, although smaller than last year, was still packed with talent. "I feel we could go out comfortably and perform for other schools," said Murphy. To back this up, the Orchestra planned its first ever road tour. The size of the chorus was "good, with the largest group of subbies ever!" The madrigal's 17 members "really get along well" and performed "a lot during the holiday season." Under Laura Reneau's supervision, Uni thespians put out their first ever fall musical, "With A Wink And A Nod And A Bow To The Times," a script written by Reneau. The production was "a synthesis of all the Andy Hardy 'kids' musicals and a subtle homage to 42nd Street" and involved a larger number of developed roles for greater student participation. "The addition of a fall musical was a break from routine," said Reneau. "Any kind of routine is boring."

Karen Hellyer taught her art classes "a lot about drawing, painting, and the elements and principles of design." She also enlightened subbies who did "3-D cartooning." Students also competed in the Regional Scholastic Arts Competition.

Library On The Move

Two major changes marked the opening of the library: the installation of the elevator shaft and a new computer terminal. The library lost 15-20 square feet with the addition of the elevator, and lines of student volunteers moved approximately 1000 books out of the library and back. As a result, the library was closed during the summer and didn't open until the fourth week of school.

Another addition to the library was the arrival of the new computer card catalog. Before this year, the computer catalog mixed Uni books in with the University online catalog. This made finding books unnecessarily difficult. Over the summer, Uni librarians created a computer file for Uni High books which, according to head librarian Francis Jacobson, "could mean the difference between finding books and not finding books." The catalog also has a record of Uni's magazines so that "the students have access to an enormous variety of sources." The new catalog has received a warm welcome from the students. "It's neat to see the students using the computer," said librarian Vaily Oehlke.

So the library is back and here to stay. "We're really happy to be back open" said Ms. Jacobson, "After all, what's a library without people in it!"

"It's nice being underclassmen because we have a lot of time for fun before college."
— Kumar Das and Andy Liebovich

UN*forgettable*

. . . Underclassmen

To the seniors they were doorstops, but in reality they made up the bulk of the student population. Providing the noise and the giggles amongst the stress ridden halls, the subbies through juniors made up much of the Uni news. They led organizations, threw dances and raised money, and most importantly they grew, so that one day they could be BIG, BAD SENIORS!

Their outstanding talent in cross-country and basketball excited Uni coaches and gave a promising outlook for sports seasons to come.

FRESHMEN

The UNfearing Freshmen leaders, consisting of David Asher (president), Cindy Wang (sec/treasurer), and Nola Miller (representative), organized the Spring Fling and New Year's Dance. Thanks to the throngs of bake sales and Oriental Food Sales, the Freshmen fed the school and we looked forward to them week after week. The Freshmen also enjoyed their first year of official petitioning from P.E., as they dazzled everyone with their awesome athletic abilities.

THE CLASS OF '92 DEDICATES THE YEARBOOK TO CHRIS BUTLER

"He cares about what the students are doing. He raised us as better people, not just as better students."

While Mr. Butler may not be best remembered for his handwriting, every senior of the Class of 1992 will walk away with some fond memories of our history teacher — Mr. B. With these fond memories, the Class of '92 dedicates this yearbook to Mr. Chris Butler. Many of us first encountered Mr. Butler subbie year, and we quickly learned he "always finishes," which oftentimes meant staying after the bell rang. As we travelled through Geography with him, we learned the most efficient ways to run away from home, utilizing the main interstates. Next, we experienced Ancient History and learned about the opposable thumb. As we continued our journey through history, we were constantly awed by his leaping abilities as he pulled the maps down, many of us comparing his grace and style to Michael Jordan. Life for many of us became more complicated with the introduction of flow charts, but we shouldn't have worried. Everything came together with Mr. B's help. The time and care he gave us is invaluable. We all can count numerous review sessions in his office, all done on his time. Everyone of course will also walk away with the memories of Mr. B's simulation games, another reflection of his time and caring. We are all thankful for the years we've been able to spend with Mr. Butler and thankful that he was always concerned about our well-being. And, of course, we're thankful we all now know the real truth about Santa Claus.

"He has humor and enthusiasm in his lectures, you want to listen."

SENIOR WILLS

I, Mojgone, Azemun, leave a lovely beverage to every man, woman, and child. To Jayee-Jay, E. Murphy, Suzie-Poozey, and much excellent fun.

I, Suzie Baunsgard, leave Cathy (U2!) Mike H. and lots of luck for her JUNIOR YEAR, dRAKE 7$ (so he can buy me a car) and my fish-hook, Jenny Alsberg some belly-button lint, Jillanna my Frenchy beret, Lucy my sunglasses, my Russian class a Stalin repressive and a silent movie, Kim . . .berly and Lesley a hug, CREW (!) some much deserved respect, and to everyone from camp, my glow-in-the-dark boxers and a flashlight to play with.

I, Chris Bear, blah blah blah, do hereby bequeath unlimited elevator rides to next year's seniors, a deck of cards I picked up somewhere to Aaron to carry on the poker tradition, a couple of brain ceels and some pool ability (which he desperately needs) to Heinrich, and the various other items I have acquired will be auctioned off to the highest bidder.

I, Mike Bekiares, to Cathy and all the wonderful secretaries, I leave the subbies, and to Randy a ring of keys. To Mrs. Laughlin, the most wonderful English teacher in the world, I leave a set of weather-stripping. To Carl, I leave the keys to the school. To Murph, I leave a set of cable tools and a copy of "Debbie Does Dallas." And to Bodnar, I leave the pump.

I, Dave Borgeson, leave Steve Thorn the soccer team with best wishes for an . . . interesting . . . season and THE FUTURE!!! HA!! To Jeif Thorn, I leave a normal sternum, to Andy L., a couple of nuts, to Leif C., the same, to Austin, a new pair of Air Buddy's, to Jason R., the answer to Life, the Universe, and Everything, to Joel J., a gift certificate to Lip Liposuctions R Us (just kidding), to Jessica P., some decent music taste, to Big Boy, a hearty Sit On It, to Tracy, a weird expression, and finally to everyone that I borrowed money from, the knowledge that it was put to good use, and to my sister my love, even though you're a pain in the *ss.

I, Yvette Cataneo, leave lots of luck and necklaces to Katie W. and Claire H., a bazillion hellos and warm smiles to Gene Paik, a hug to Jenny Alsberg, confidence to Jenny Auler (you are beautiful), endless nights o' fun to Sarah and Lucy, and endless supply of hugs to Melanie A., loving memories of French to Alex Betts, Mike C., and Keren Y., a beautiful man to Tracy, Andrea M., and Jessica P. happiness and fugliness, at the same time, to Rachie, and endless amount of sincere compliments to Erga, crazy memories of our zany talks during chorus and Madrigals to Erin Grant, a ray of sunshine to Jyana, a happy "note" to all the awesome Madrigals, my deepest thanks to Barb, Cathy, Randy, and Mr. Smith (What would I do without you guys?), appreciation for what you've done for me to all my teachers, and finally, my love to Laura and Murph. Thanks for everything — everyone!

I, James Chang, leave my symapthy and all my great deeds I've accomplished to my brother, Louis. I leave the burdens and worries of the Pin-Pong Club to Steve and Mr. Bergandine. As for the school, I leave with jubilation.

I, Evan Chen, being of sound mind and body, do hereby leave a sacrificial candy bar to Cindy and Deborah-Anna, a violent comic book to Che-Wei, a pencil to break for Peter, and certain computer games to Tze-John.

I, Peter Chou, leave the bus to Richard Lin, a car or at least a ride home to Mary Jamison, to Cindy Wang, whatever she wants, best wishes to Steve Thorn and Ping-Pong Club, and good luck to Mr. Butler and the Chess Team.

I, Judy Clifton, hereby bid adieu to the P.E. department, wish the Etymological Society the best of luck, and thank all of my wonderful teachers (especially the librarians).

I, Christie Curran, leave a pullboy, a "visit to Crystal Lake Pool, and lots of fond memories to Jenny H., a consistently "equipt" chest and my Violator tape to Megan Depeche Flynn, my immense muscles to Aaron H., and my alleged boyfriend from Judah to Nola. To Janie M., I leave a proper freshman attitude and a much needed brush, and to Rachel, I leave the memory of our hot date with a couple of senior studs. To Tracy S., I leave the mystery soccer babe at ponderosa whom she "almost" knew, and to Jessica P., I leave a good-hair day, patience for my deafness, and a unique car. To my favorite neighbor, Susan R., I leave a big hug and my best wishes for her very promising future! To Al and the swim team, I leave my good humor, awesome abilities, the best of luck and the success that it truly deserves. Finally, I leave my undying love and affection to James.

I, Dave Das, leave my undying sports gratitude to Ryan H., Rob K., and Brian F. To Dennis, a Big Boy Burger so you won't be hungry, to Joel, my monster b-ball packing abilities (and my vertical), to Rach, a big HELLO! (in case you didn't hear me), to Austin, a deeper voice, a RSKA, and Jan. To Steve and Jeff, I leave leave my soccer studlyness and a book of 101 Jokes (including punchlines), to Andy L, my defensive abilities for soccer. To Adam, Jase, and Ho, I leave the "summer night," to Brian Bonehead, a sweet tackle, a hot dog, a chair leg, 8-ball, all the women he can handle, and my brotherly love. To my little bro, I leave team DAS, confidence, and much love — your time will definitely come!

I, Arab Fogel, hereby leave Rachel L. a Tyrant Lay and Andrea great times in the alto section. I leave Eddie my name, Aaron a million VCR tapes, and David K. memories of augmented fourths. To Allison C. and Lesley, I leave full control of the flutes and future luck. Katie W. gets my happiness in return for all the smiles she gave me. I leave Jon my respect and friendship forever and Carl any new equipment he wants and a bat for dealing with requests. I leave Mr. Murphy more money than he can handle and something stunning, Finally, I leave my sister memories of late night solitaire, all my love, and anything else she wants.

I, Mindy Foland, leave Lesley and Cathy, crew and the Paint Brush of Anarchy. To Frog, I leave Ali and a huge smile. To Ali, I leave a big "HI!!!", a huge smile, a laugh, and all my german skills. To Jillanna, I leave Andy. Too Tim R., I leave a big wave. Michelle Garcia, I leave you my east coast accent. To Nathaniel, a hug from BooBoo and Walter. To Sally I leave some Lifesaver Holes. And to everybody at Uni I say Thank You and I leave my love.

I, Brian Frizzell, will to Amy F. a big pickle, the ability to not be ticklish to Jessica, 5 pedidles to Erica, a muzzle for Jason R., my position and number 23 in soccer to Andy, a serious conversation to Rachel, and an evening by the fire to Tracy with all my love.

I, Bahareh Harandi, leave to Mary the knowledge that she'll be leaving this place in just 2 years, and to the janitor, John Turner, infinite objects of beauty for every piece of trash he's had to pick up and a warm hello to replace every ignorant student who walks on by him.

I, Corey Hochman, leave Uni High my effervescent charm. I leave Uni students a strong academic life, though not necessarily a social one. To all but a few Uni teachers, I leave my respect, for they taught me well. I leave Mrs. Laughlin a big hug because she inspired me to write and enjoy it. I leave Mr. Butler, the best history in the world, a chess team that will never match up to the Chess Studs (1992 grads). I leave the subbies some hormones so maybe they will grow.

I, Ho Sun Hwang, of Korean mind and body, leave Omar some gourmet imitation bacon bits from Borden, Andy N. a hot babe, Anne-Marie my car and love, Cindy W. Alyx's buff body, Jenny H. Chad's driving skills, David W. a tailpipe and rearview mirror, Amy a tan and a parka, and finally, Laurel a big, wet, sloppy, everlasting kiss.

I, Eman Jassim, leave my ability to ask many questions to Emad, my inspirational quotes to Omar, a message (hi) to Hanan and Nadia, my goal of running with goats to Molly, my fingernail polish to the Track and Cross-Country Teams (Girls), my ability to interpret "signs" to Ali, a sharp set of spikes for sprinter Cindy W., my skill (not) of hurdling to Marla and Sonia, and lastly loud music for Lindsey and Amanda.

I, Jenny Kang, leave to Rachel an evening of talk and Chopin, a huge hug, and my friendship, to Andrea, a hot guy in a baja at Espresso, and to Tracy, a dozen movies and a phone call. To Erin G., I leave a tickle of giggles on a Sunday night, to Erica, PINKY!, to Erga a belch, to Jyana a ray of sunshine, and to Yulun a lot of love. I leave Jannie a big smile and to Tim L. many pleasant morning rides to school. Joyce Tang, I leave you all the piano accompaniments, and Eddie and Gene, I leave you the Mozart Sonata, my love for music, and my sisterly love. To dear Dave Kim, I leave "faculty meetings." To the Mads I leave a string of fa-la-la's, and to Murph my appreciation for his help and many grins. Finally, to all the seniors, I leave the five long years we've shared, the best of luck, and a BRIGHT future!!

I, Brad Kibler, leave to Melanie a couple more years of entertaining walks to P.E., and Art comments. To Sean, I leave T-Shirts with the truth. To Leif, I leave quiet snide comments in German class. To Ellen, I leave semi-intelligent comments in whatever languages she's taking next year. To Aaron G., I leave $5,723. To George, I leave exciting rides to and from school. To Heinrich, I leave my poker chips. To Shannon, I leave Hank for another year. To Amy N., I leave Jodi C. and midnight raids. To Aaron O., I leave a fair cut, and the ability to cheat anyway. To Gene, I leave control of Herr Weg. To Lito, I leave correct pronunciation of gammmas. To Tim, I leave Heratige H.S. To Sophia, I leave the eternal name "Bebe." To Keren, I leave the correct time and a good blush or two.

I, Joyce Lee, leave a jellybean, a peach rose, and a red dress to Aaron, Ms. Weber and a hot guy to Jenny H., the entire Urbana soccer team to Jessica, an "accidental" wrong turn to my house to Andrea, and a flower and a peck to Jyana. To Erga I leave an easy locker combination, to Michelle I leave a smile, to Andy I leave Miss Perfect and a phone call, to David K. I leave my Bluebird pin, to Gene I leave a cheerful hello, to Jason R. I leave a faithful manager, to Sunavo I leave a toy to play with in art, to Angela and Jane I leave a tennis racket. Finally, I wish Erin G. the best of luck in her music, I give Murph my true thanks, and I leave my tan, a finger piano, and all my love to Rachel. To the class of '92 and everyone else at Uni, I wish you all the best luck.

I, Cynthia A. Liebovich, would like to leave a few things in memory of my years in high school. First, to my brother, Andy, I would like to leave the knowledge that he will succeed even if he doesn't know it and no one else will admit it. Also, I'd like to leave him a few malt cups. To my sister, Becky, the hope that she will remember me as a close sister and the hope that she will continue the tradition of Liebovicbes at Uni. I would like to leave Deborah Reznek a badmitton Championship, Melanie Adcock a normal life, David Asher an order of nachos at Snak's and a girl to eat with him, Aaron Holland a fish caught on the lip and an eighteen wheeler, and Allison Cobb less tender lips. I wish continued success to the basketball and track teams. Finally, I offer lots of luck to Holly, Chad, Heidi, Erin R., Dana, and Adam and my eternal friendship to Amy P., and Mo, my three stooges buddies.

I, Phil Lin, being of sound mind and body, do hereby bequeath as follows: love and best wishes to my brother, the need-for-speed to the true men of Track (mid-distance crew!), speed work to the CC teams, my share of the Chinese Mafia to Richard, a :55 to David W., my Ford stereo system to Robert, my height to alyx, my ability to make German teachers like me to Eddie, my smile and Ray-Bans to Omar, my car to Cindy W. (shot gun to Anne-Marie), a big, wet, sloppy kiss to Laurel, every banana label to Alison, my crutches to Jenny H. (you'll grow into them), my thanks and maps to the History teachers, lots of balloons, candy, and cake to the Office, my book shelving skills to Francis and Runelle, blueberry muffins and shaving cream to Bonnie, a couple of "ripples" to Mark Poremba, and, finally, my thanks and gratitude to all my teachers (yes, all) and to all my friends, past and present.

I, Melinda Minear, hereby leave to Amy F. my nickname of weaselbait, to Sally, a container of wintergreen lifesaver holes and a bite in the knees, to the rest of the basketball team, my vicious nature, to Jenny H., a big hug for her kindness, to Sean Barrett, a large bruise from all the times I've hit him with a pingpong ball, to Carl, a friendly hello, to Mr. Butler, the knowledge that Macedon truly does rule, and my love of Kiwi fruit and granola bars to myself.

I, Megan Morgan, leave Tim the sole leadership of the monarchy, Sara a football for sports, Kimberely a warped and twisted brain lacking a photographic memory, and the teachers lots of thanks.

I, Anna Neatrour, leave the Espressp Royale to any future existentialists out there. I leave a smirk to Jenny, a depressed slump to Micah, and a copy of Grey #10 to Jason. To Drake, I leave a pair of socks and the Imaginary Jar, to do with what he will.

I, Kim Nelson leave Aaron H. my P.E. excuses and a ride to a soccer game, David K. lessons to cook Ramen — the right way, Jannie and Erin G. another year with Sally, and for Jayhird, my "honorary little sis," I leave a cruise in the Jeepster and a life time supply of stand-up comedy routines. I leave a "big Miss America smile" to Mrs Castellon and Mrs. Callahan, "mommy notes" to Barh and Sally, a "hello" to Randy and to Mr. B., Mr. Crames and everyone else who has helped and cared for me at Uni I leave my deepest respect, admiration, and gratitude.

I, Nadine Nicholson, leave to Ho Sun and Uni, "The Brown Shoe Story," to the Track and Cross-country teams, I leave the power of faith in yourselves and each other, to Ms. Wells, thanks for your ear, energy, enthusiasm, and support, to Mr. Winkler, Holly, and Chad, thanks for keeping me afloat through it all, to Amy-hug, I give my love, thanks, and my promose to he there for you, to Erga, the promise: "Anything that doesn't kill you only makes you stronger" to Mark I leae a halcony — rail at sunrise peace with the past and hope for the future and to Chris, I give my love, respect, and the Emperor Ice Cream — I hope you find him.

I, Joe Park, of Einstein's hrain and Schwarzenegger hody, leave Dennis a joke (Einstein's hrain — hah!) and a lot of thanks for all his jokes and his clever wit which always found a way to make me laugh. Thanks D. To Rach, my hud from Hell, I leave a final smile (smile) for all the smiles that she's given me to make me smile. For Tom, who is leaving with me, I remind him of all the excellent times we had together.

I, Amy Parker, leave my sincerest thanks to the Uni teachers, staff, and administration who do so much for Uni students and get so little in return. I also leave Laurel "The Bullet" a huge, unhealthy ice cream sundae and a future state championship, Ali C. a hig vote of confidence, So-Jo lots of luck and incredihle pumpitude (kick SJO), Marla the courage to carry on the tradition of humhle tights, (e.) Murphy a kick in the rear to join track, and my favorite freshmen (Lindsey, Amanda, Allison C., and Cindy W.) luck and a hit more intensity. I leave Sally my thanks for teaching me so much as well as putting up with my moods. Finally, I leave Bonnie my deepest respect and gratitude for teaching me so much as a coach as well as a friend (good luck, too)! Also, lots of luck to future Track, CC, and girls h-hall teams.

I, Andrea Peck, leave to Leslie a smile and hello, to Amy F. a well-coordinated slam dunk, to Jay and Murph I leave my forward moves, to Erin G. a softer voice, to Lito a ride in the countrym to Lydia W. the rest of Latin Cluh, to Pat, Sally, and to Mr. Stone my thanks, and I wish many years of success to the girls haskethall team.

I, Eric G. Phillips, heing of completely sound mind and hody, do not, technically, exist. Despite this hinderance, I leave PACE and a lot of thanks to Mr. B. I also leave to Mel and to Ms. Wells the chaos that is Creativity Cluh or Writer's Guild or whatever you decide to call it. I leave the English department some time and to the rest of Uni I leave a game of Mao, my general nausea and a legacy of total depression.

I, Erin Reep, heing the Senior Studette that I am, leave "un hon homme" and lots of hugs to Tracy and Jyana. Have an awesome senior year, guys! To Mike Cardman, Alex Betts, and Aaron G., I leave memories of Bond and our psycho days with Jeff and Chad. To Sophia W. and Ellen E. I leave lots of smiles and my hest wishes. To Andrea Mustain, I leave my hack issues of Vogue, Glamour, and Cosmo. Dre, it is up to you to carry on the Glamour-girl tradition! And to this year's 2nd hour P.E. class, I leave the joy of more years of fitness with Bonnie. Oh — and a hig grin for Yulun! For Amy P., Joyce L., and Amy W., I leave memories of Laughlin and the Cotswald games. I leave "du pain" to Jenny K. and postcards of Paris! To Steph T., I leave you my NIV and you're in my prayers! Cyndi, go give 'em somethin' to talk ahout! Linda Swee, rememher Long Arm and hrown courdoroy pants — the legacy lives on. For Yvette, I leave the reruns of SNL.. "Dear Son . . ." Finally, lots of love to everyhody in our Senior Class!! We are outta here!!

I, Chad A. Richardson, can't legally write this due to the sound mind hit, hut oh well. I leave to Cindy my leather jacket and Alyx, to Alyx my harem, to Jenny H., my tie, some ice, and a time check, to Erga, some sick drama jokes, to Anne-Marie, my Nike windhreaker and the hope of the future, to Racy, Jyana, Alex, and Mike I leave the psychotic legacy. to Mark Poremha, Satre, and his keys, to Amanda, a real man named Fiel, to Laurel a hig, wet, sloppy kiss, and to everyone else a Bridget/Tysan/Wendy/Josh/Nadine/Adam/Cyndi when they need one.

I, Shared Satsangi, heing lucky enough to leave Uni do decree that to Melanie I leave th rules to Mau, to Mojgone I leave my guitar playing ahility, to Tristan I leave the "cookware," to Mr. Crames, I leave tons of noise and trash in the kitchen, I leave Prince's Wardrohe to Mrs. Wheeler. I leave my spirit and dehts to all left at Uni, and especially the sacred knowledge of taxation.

I, Jeff Schomer, leave to all freshmen and other new memhers of the cross-country and track teams three more years of hell. To Bonnie I leave lots of luck, hecause she will need it. To Murphy leave my thanks, and some new jokes (both clean and dirty.) To all underclassmen I leave this statement: If you think it was hard so far at UNI, just wait a few years and see what UNI really does to you. Lastly, and mayhe most importantly, I leave to everyone who helped me through my car accident my love and gratitude.

I, Kelly Schrepfer, leave to Gian Paulo my ahility to whine and drive at the same time, to Minh the correct pronunciation of his name, to Dan my Catholicism, to Jason Rogers a life of his own so he'll stay out of mine, to G.D. I leave some new friends hecause she deserves them, to Michelle the seat next to me in chorus, to the Uni High Science Department I leave mydad, and last, hut certainly not least, I leave a hanana to Tracy, hecause she needs one.

I, Isohell Stasheff, leave the Station Theatre to anyone who can't accept only school as a life. I leave, hut will return, Espresso Royale, the Krannert amphitheatre, the place where the sidewalk used to end and love, not the sappy kind, to those who've heen there and those who would like to he. To chorus I gladly leave "Frostiana" and other songs of its like as well, more with regret, my heloved latin music. To Uni guys, you aren't as icky as Uni girls complain you are. Your hest days are yet to come. I leave to all, my deepest, ingrained sincerity.

I, Caty Steigmann, will to Tim the ahility to carry on the Monahan tradition of fun and fine academics, to Jay and Amy a true and lasting friendship, to Austin memories of Jan, to Erin some driving lessons, to Joel the memory of one excellent French partner, to Aaron the right woman, to Dennis a picture of my hig ol' . . ., to Megan a friendly chat and smile, to Mr. Crames a special thanks for giving me a hreak, to Randy a holler from down the hall, to Barh a stack of keys to the Mac room, to Melanie I wish her happiness and the hest of luck in the future. A very special and sincere thank-you I leave to Mrs. Callahan hecause I never thought I would he ahle to learn Calc.

I, Holly Stephens, leave a hox of Suisse Mocha to Suzie B., and one to Anna N. To Aaron H. I leave a damn hard kick in the derriere, and my undying love to Thi. To Nadine N., Andrea P., Stephanie T., Linda S., and Cyndi L. I leave my undying frienship. And to Mr. Butler, Mr. Stone, Mrs. Kaplan, Mrs. Kaplan, Mrs. Laughlin, Mrs. Callahan, and Pat I leave my respect and endless thanks. Finally, I leave..with a hetter reputation than Russ Ames.

I, Linda Sweeney, leave a jalapeno jelly hean and a little yellow hirdie with a little yellow hill to my cute outer galactical companion Erga, a hig glass of water to Jannie Lung, a damned potholder to Jenny Auler, and a personal question to Marla Bee. To Joel Jacohson, I hequeath my Kingdom of Passion. To RALPH (you know who you are) a dead Romeo, to Michelle G. a hig transformer and G.I. Joe action figure in memory of "Rohot jox," and to Andrea Mustain my huge atrophied hrain, to Aaron H. and Thi my part of the profits from our hook, to Kian and Alex B. something. To my children, David K. and Eyamha, memories of their hispanic father, to Jyana a very sexy pair of Indian legs (you know whose). And, FINALLY, I leave Tolono.

I, Tze-John Tang, will my chess skils to the future chess team, my intonation to the Orchestra, a violin how to Eddie, many decks of cards to my sister and her friends, and finally, my optimistic attitude to the whole school.

I, Stephanie Tredway, heing the twisted person I am, leave the following: to Tracy, Juan's home phone numher; Michelle G. all the fun we had in creative writing; Tim, you get the "hrownie from hell" and a hottle of Safari; to Mr. Murphy, you can have all Bill Stevens' hair; Sally, you have my eternal thanks for your help in the past four years. For anyone who's still in Latin, I leave you memories of Eugenia and a Rohert-style spaz. And Dwarfel, you can have my ahility to go without a relationship for more than two days. For all the seniors, "may sunshine and happiness surround you when you're far from home." I leave you all my prayers. Dana, I hope soon that you find an aolder woman who will kiss on command and my higgest smile so I don't have to hear you say "Smile, Steph!" ever again. Linda, I will you to a college far from Toono, and Holly, I leave you a "Hi Butthead!" and something that makes you go hmmm. And, finally, to my 'lil sis' Gomer, I leave a ski slope, Dave Nichols, RR, a "Hey Gome!", any guy in the produce section, all my love, and finally: A friend's a friend forever.

I, Heidi R. van Es, do herehy will Jay S. a copy of the Gateway to Love and Mildew/Ken, and Aaron G. the knowledge that DUKE and CHRISTIAN LAETTNER rule forever. To the girls' "pepa cluh," I leave my voice to cheer with and all of my love. To Jess-a-wessa, I leave my unhelievahle passion over new hras, a 500 counter permanently stuck on 69!, my respect, and the recipe for ILLINI BARS & DIP, to Megan F., a dictionary to look up the difference hetween "excrete" and "exert," to Tracy, a glow-in-the-dark car clock, a HUGE cockroach in a cup on her dashhoard, and my thanks for putting up with my highstrung ways. Jani, I officially pass on the title "mom" and all of the ohligations it ensues to YOU, to Al, my leg hair and a game of Volleyhall with me as all-time-server, to Randy, someone else to shake his keys at, and to Pat, Mr. Crames, and Mr. B., my respect and appreciation for all of their time and concern. Finally, to Rachie, my pal of eleven (and counting!) years, thanks for always heing there in my "year(s)!" of need. I will you my phone numher and a willing ear.

I, Anne Volk, leave Molly Rohin-Ahhott a never-ending supply of animal crackers, Ali and Llaurel hread runs, Amanda Isaacson my green running tights to wear with her shamrock shorts, and Anne-Marie Cziko the chestnut tree down the street.

I, Dana Wagner, leave to Erga a slow dance in a Chicago night cluh, to Jyana some sunshine and the perfect man, to David K. some lemonheads, to Jon some DMSO, to Sonia something that smells good, and to Aaron H. some gas money and a four-door car. To my mascot Jenny H. I leave a smile and a friendly slap in the face, to Rachel my undying friendship and an error-free Gargoyle, to Amy F. ("chorus girl") a kleenex and a hottle of conditioner, and to Matt C. I leave some coordination so he never misses the hrake pedal again.

I, Che-Wei Wang, herehy bequeath to David Asher some humility, to Dehranna an execution contract and a hillion dollar penny, to Rohyn my orchestra seat, to Louis the chess team captaincy, to Nola an A and a shoelace, to Jeff T. the swim meet telescope, to Minh a new spelling for his name and my pheromones, to Leif a Top 40 list of hahes and some realistic goals, to Amanda my clean mind and a naked Twister game with four hot guys, to Richard Lin my share of control in the Chinese mafia, to Andy L. another 2-on-7 h-hall partner, to Jason Rogers my awesome kangaroo douhle pump, to Sean my famous math pillow, to Mr. B a finished computer game and a rook-odds chess whipping, to Pat some liveliness and a hathroom monitor, to Eddie some soap to wash out his mind, to Rachel a hig smile, to Tracy some locker shelves, more shoes I can wear, and a few thousand empty pop cans, to Mr. Stone a Che-Mo Insane Society memhership, to Jenny Hsui a rude comment, another punching hag, and all my horniness, and finally, to my sister, a speedy guy, a different smile, a Soloflex, a late night conversation, and lots of luck and love.

I, David Watanahe, heing of unsound mind and hody, do herehy leave . . . a good hloody hattle to the Mechwarriors of Uni; the legacy of Battletech classes to Brent H. ('cause he's hetter than the rest of you!); a loud Hi! and some good ideas to Melanie A.; some extra $ to those wh need it — a hit more to Chris B., Shred, and Lucy S. (if you need it); a pile of something to Drake; strong neck muscles to Sean B.; an understanding of Jap. and BT to Casey S.; my knives to Jon (have knife get it?); certain death to certain people; a completed project to Parker; some sense to Blondie; a car wreck to Carl C.; a hodyguard to Nathaniel (to keep you from hurting yourself); death to Matthew Wallace; "I know someone you don't know . . ." (you all know who you are!); and goodhye to Uni, may you live long and prosper.

I, Amy Wen, leave fur-head Hsui a lodging gun that she'll use until she's 50, Amester Fogel 10 Million high-fives, and I leave Aaron Holland a couple of hlondes in the hack of an Urhana classroom. I leave Andrea M. a happy life and a raincheck for her autograph. To Gian-Paulo I leave a muzzle, Steve T. some fat, to Tracy I leave a shrimp, to Erin G. I leave my laugh so I can have hers, and to Tim M., a seat helt in the lounge. To Micah I leave my towering height and to all those smiley people that cheerfully greeted me in the morning, I leave a hig, toothy grin in return. Finally, I wish the hest of luck to the awesome class of '92.

I, Adam Wengert, herehy dispense my estate. To Brian I leave my dog and Ho Sun's sleeping hag. To my teachers, thanks for putting up with my devastating wit and occasional lack of effort. To Mr. Crames, I leave my profound respect and thanks for not giving up on me. To Peter F., I leave a lifetime supply of stray animals and roadkill. To all throwers, I leave the memory of Dali and the knowledge that with hard work (Emad) you will succeed. Finally, to Laurel, I leave a hig, wet, sloppy kiss, 'cause she deserves it.

1992 SENIOR

SUBBIE YEAR: We enter Uni 54 strong and full of enthusiasm, and Uni proves to fulfill all of our expectations. Kelly, Caty, and Tina start CHEERLEADING. We spend free hours on PLATO, and party all weekend, every weekend. Liz Wahgnerrrrr turns on all the guys with her drawl and her (short!) skirts. Math class serenades Mr. Epperson and Ben K. memorizes Pi. Brad is Mr. Briefcase. Weaselbait bites us in basketball. We beg Dr. Ames to listen to Ms. Laughlin behind the curtain, and Jeff S. is sent out of the circle daily. Jane Zhang, DANG! Brian asks Mr. B where the Romans came from, and proceeds to ask the class: "I am a squirrel, where are my nuts?" Adam stabs himself with a pencil and is rushed to the hospital. We test diapers and throw tennis balls in Sub Science. Yogurt is thrown down the stairwell. Jenny is hit by a car, and LTS cries all period. Dana is Elvis. Brian tries to kiss Cyndi on the cheek. Darren writes Caty a love poem. Girls' subbie b-ball wins the first game in Uni history. Loretta is class president and walks out of class meetings. Ho Sun breaks someone elses bridge at Science Olympiad. Ben K. runs for U.S. president and is in Star Magazine. Subbie girls rate the guys on looks — Tze-John wins. Birds and Girl Crazy. Pizza box at Joyce's. Ho Sun begs Kim to go out with him. Doug likes Kim. Kelly X Tom F., Kelly X Tristan, Amy X Tristan, Joyce X Tom F., Cyndi X Brian, Christie X Corey, Heidi X Peter, Loretta X Fabio, and Bahareh X Fritz.

FRESHMAN YEAR: We lose Sujata, Darren, Patty F., Tom F., Loretta, Tina, and Ben K., but we gain Ricky A., Chris B., Yvette, Judy, Otoe, Lani, Thomas, Joe, Steph T., and Che-Wei. Girls' X-Country is third at state. One section of Biology never knows if they are normal. FINAL FOUR. Brian falls on the floor while dancing and blacks out. Mr. B goes on strike. Ricky ties FRIZZ WHIZZ to her chair by her ribbons. Chris Turner sports the message: "It's more than just a pub." Tristan gets a 26% on a Bio Test. Mindy finds a frog in her sandwich. Bahareh blow dries her hair in Algebra II. Troy and Yvette open our innocent Freshman eyes with their P.D.A. in the hallway. Caty dyes her hair pink. Ricky learns about fascism the hard way. Jason spends "quality time" with Liz. Doug likes Kim. Cyndi goes to prom with Bobby! Arah X Sang, Caty X Sang, Otoe X Mo, Troy X Yvette, Otoe X Erin R., Otoe X Kelly, Kelly X Kenny Battle, Bahareh X Joe L., Tristan X Rachel L., Lani X Paul T., Jeff S. X Erin G., Joe X Erin R., and Brian X Heidi.

SOPHOMORE YEAR: We gain Suzie, James C., Loretta Phil, and Megan, but we lose Ricky, Mindy, Lani, Otoe, Anna N., and Triscuit (Tristan). Jenny goes to Switzerland for the semester. MRS. KYM wears boxers in case her pants catch on fire, and Jason has her wait on him at J.C. Penney's. CHEF JEFF. Izzi does WEFT. Epperson becomes an administrator. The kitchen is redone, and we host the SOPHOMORE BANQUET. "One on One" is banned from the dances, but is played anyway. Anna P. is on National TV reenacting a seizure. Track gets third in state. We raft down the Boneyard for Geography. Mo and Heidi buy Jason in the servant sale, shave him, and dress him in a towel. Earth Day 1990. Doug likes Kim. Forty percent of the girls in our class want to kill themselves (says a Gargloyle survey). Caty X Steve K., Kelly X Tom, Jeff S. X Carolyn, Erin R. X Dan Shunk, Yvette X Troy, Bahareh X Joe L., Amy W. kisses Nate, Heidi X Robert, and Arah X Brendan.

CLASS HISTORY

JUNIOR YEAR: We lose Loretta, Steve, and Tari, and Jeff is gone for a semester. We gain Mindy, Chris K., Nadine, and Sharad. White Hen closes, and everyone feasts on pizza sold by yearbook. X-Country is fourth in the state. Suzie and Bahareh wear black. Nadine is not eligible for half of the track season, but IHSA eventually overturns its decision. French IV goes to intermezzo at least once a week. Dave Das "scores for the seventh time" on Erin R., and is dragged into Student Council to explain. The pay phone comes, and Ames leaves amid a plagerism scandal. Chess wins State! Kim fails P.E. THE PERSIAN GULF WAR. Euchre rules the school. Chicken/Ticket debate. Catalyst. "T.P.ing" is the craze — who are the culprits? Judy and Anna P. found Etymological Society. Kelly and Mo are trainers for the sports teams and Joyce is the manager. Amy P. is Athlete of the Week. Ms. Laughlin never has enough dittos for fifth hour. Racist notes are left on a student's locker. Joyce and Amy W. are Agora Days co-goddesses. Ms. Woods teaches us about knives, but not much about Calc. Noah and Yvette rule Big Show 1991. James and Che-Wei found Ping-Pong club. Amy P. does Prairie State Games. The girls hide from the guys at Prom. Track gets second at state. Nadine goes on the Senior Class Trip and Chris participates in Senior Skip Day. Erin R. X Brian, Erin R. X Dave D. (NOT!), Kelly X Dave B., Mike X Anh Van, Bahareh X long-haired U. of I. guys, David W. X Anh Van, Peter X Amanda I., Nadine X Chris K., Arah X Brendan, Cyndi X Dan, Arah X Ken, Yvette X Troy, Mindy X Phil, and Kim X Derek

SENIOR YEAR: We lose nobody, and gain Sarah M., Anna N., and Brian W. Dr. Meares takes over Ames' job, and he keeps the door open! We lose the Winter Gifts, the servant sale, rated "R" movies during Agora Days, and the Indian as our mascott. Quotes for the yearbook are censored and our attendance is computerized. Ho Sun and Thomas are Waldorf and Stadtler. Chris B. teaches Adele about formulas. Christie's plastered and so breezy around town. Phil rules Stud Council. Adam sings the National Anthem — and forgets the words. Eman and Andrea win money to go to the U of I. Amy P. comes into the lounge. Kim goes to Kenya and Anne goes to Mexico. Brian's chair and woodglue. Adam goes from stuff to stud (see page 112B&C). RSKA! Soccer has a record 12 wins. FOOSBALL MANIA!! X-Country is ranked first in the state during the season, gets third at state! Caty (ahem) fails P.E. Eric writes and directs "And the Dead Man Spoke." The X-Country team leaves gifts at the girls' houses. BeRoved. Wheeler quits and a second Mr. Murphy takes her place. Pogo invades the lounge. . .who dunnit? Dave D. grows a goatee. Mo, Kelly, and Che-Wei rule Big Show. U. of I. classes. We outline books while Ms. Suslick drinks Pepsi. Bio bug collecting -Thomas falls in the river. Beverly Hills 90210. Ms. Suslick, Bonnie, Ms. Kaplan, JVDB, and Ms. Asbell-Clarke are pregnant — what's in the water? Nadine X Jon O., Chris X Erica, Ho Sun X Amy F., Joyce X Dave B., Brian X Tracy, Heidi X Robert, Jason X Nola, Christie X John L., Yvette X Troy, Anna N. X Drake, Brian W. X Maitri, Arah X Dave C., Amy P. X Adam, Cyndi X Dan, Bahareh X Eduardo, and Caty X Tris. Somehow we end up graduating with six more students than we started with. We've been here five years, and it has definitely been a "learning experience." Later!

"Boys N The Hood"

Writer-director John Singleton is only in his early 20s, but he displays the confidence of someone much older in this feature-film debut. Singleton's portrait of life and random death in the ghettos of Los Angeles is gritty and powerful. He hasn't yet completely mastered the art of structuring his scenes — some of them go on too long and are too static. But he has a sharp ear for dialogue and he has one thing every great filmmaker must have — a passion for his subject. He also has an inner rage at the senseless violence that is decimating our nation's black neighborhoods. Singleton is definitely a talent to watch.

"The Silence of the Lambs"

Jonathan Demme's gripping, terrifying thriller is anything but a routine slasher film. It's a fascinating character study of two people who seem to be polar opposites — a killer and an FBI agent — who develop a kind of twisted, symbiotic relationship. Each needs the other: a fresh, brilliantly insightful Jodie Foster as Clarice Starling, the young FBI agent, and Anthony Hopkins as Hannibal "The Cannibal" Lecter, the psychiatrist she must consult. Lecter and Starling are virtual shoo-ins for Oscar time, as is Demme, whose taut direction makes this the definitive modern horror flick.

"Beauty and the Beast"

Easily the most sheerly enjoyable Disney film since "101 Dalmatians" — thanks in large part to the marvelously witty songs of composer Alan Menken and lyricist Howard Ashman (who tragically died of AIDS this year). The score for "Beauty and the Beast" is good enough to stand up against the great Broadway musicals of the past. The folks at Disney have candidly pitched this film not only to small children, but also to adults, many of whom

We were standing by when you took your first steps. We patched your knee after you let go of training wheels. We helped you recover from measles, flus, fractures, fevers, lumps, bumps, and mumps. We remember our diagnosis of "lovesick" and we smile. Thanks for letting us share the special moments.

May your good health accompany you throughout a successful future.

You Know Who You Are....

TO be or not TO be... He did what under the table?!?... So just rate these people... Jeff, out of the circle!... Penis came up to me... Convenience Shorts... Janeeet, openup! Ve Know yore in der!... We're just "dating"... Sometimes you just feel genitive... Awesome Relay... Oh L'amour... THS!?!... Lucy + Ethyl... Bone, do the dog!... Loathing is endless, hate is a bottomless cup... IHH... You weren't you... T.R., I can't tell you how much I learned this summer... Ill probably have them solved, but why don't you come over Saturday around 8 am?... I've scored 6 times and I'm about to score again!... They "met" for the first time... 10:25? That's when we were there!... Are they going out? No, he doesn't have a girlfriend... complex pink hue... BRETT ATTACK...

So it frothed and foamed... Well, we've got two of the best-looking ones under our bets... He's a BAT!... We are Awesome!... It's STUUPID!... Pennsylvania Dutch... Bus Driver × Funeral Director... But you took off your BELT!... Close the knife before you throw it... Jiffy Lube – 5 minutes or less!... Meet Jessa Jew, Virgin of the mountains... What did you wear to bed?... It's all in that smile... Boggle and Chips (ZZZZ!)... She's going down... Joyce, grab a bowl of popcorn, sit back, and watch... So, who've you been hanging out with? What have you been up to?... Grease it up with some vaseline... Uhh, we got stuck in the mud... Remember what I said before you left? Well, you can throw it to the wind!... When life gives you lemons, make lemonaide... GOLF!

Just Beg • UN

While this is the end of the book, it's actually just the beginning. It's the beginning of reflecting on the past year and the times we've had at Uni. We've faced changes this past year — the elevator, a new administrator, changing curriculums, new faculty, and us, of course. We've grown up in many different respects, and we've grown up together. It's been a year full of firsts and new experiences. In this way, we've only just begun.

ACHTUNG BABY!

Yearbook editors: Mojgone "Friendless Clepto" Azemun, Heidi "Goddess" van Es, and Amy "Typevision Disk Master" Parker

They say the average life span of a yearbook advisor is three years. No wonder the facul snickered when I was introduced as the new advisor at my very first faculty meeting. In thr years, the structure of yearbook production has changed and will continue to do so as we discov more efficient ways of pulling it off.
The most impressive thing about it is that the students are truly responsible for its existenc Thanks this year to Heidi, Amy, Mojgone, Eman, and Ho Sun for extending my life span. Als thanks to the yearbook students who were dependable (you know who you are). And last thanks to the administration for helping make yearbook a class.

I'd like to use my goodbye space to simply thank everybody who helped put this yearbo together. First and foremost, I thank Mojgone and Heidi, two of my best friends. I'm thankf that they were so patient with me even when I was not. It was fun, guys!! Congratulations to t yearbook staff. You guys did a great job! Thanks, Eman and Ho Sun, for heading up t photographers. Thanks to Karen Hellyer for giving us the freedom to do what we wanted a cooperating with our compulsive, workaholic tendencies. To the office staff, Barb, Cathy, a especially Randy, thanks for all your help, patience, and support. Thank you, Sally and Mr. v Es, for babysitting us at the most crucial times. Thanks Kim, Nola, and Megan, for taking t Agora Days class and helping out so much. To Eric King and Evan Chen, thanks for beari witness to our chaos. Finally, thanks to Mr. Stone, Dave, and Adam, for keeping us sane a adding some humor to our tasks. Also to Dave and Adam, thanks so much for doing tho layouts and getting us food, etc. Thanks endlessly to my family, Mom, Dad, and Katy, w supported me and listened to my whining. I hope you all enjoy the book. I don't think there w ever be one just quite like it. HAH!!

All of my close friends know that yearbook has been my obsession the pa few months. And nobody knows that better, I suppose, than my co-editor I want my buddies Mo "Monobrow" and Amy "OCD" to know that I tru enjoyed nearly every single minute of this. Mo, though I continually tease you about being a "Perfectionist," thank you for teaching me that ever thing that I do should be done well. I'm glad that U'N'I' finally got thing back to normal. And Amy, what can I say? You're a wonderful friend, an more importantly, a wonderful person. Ms. Hellyer, thank you for trustin our judgement and respecting our opinions. Mom, Dad, Brian, and Piete you have encouraged me so much on this, and I love you all. Eman and H Sun, thanks for ignoring my spazzes over the pictures. Thanks to Christ and Rachel for their help in the doughnut sales, thanks to all of th yearbook staff for their enthusiasm and extra work (especially Heather an Kimmy), and thanks to Randy for dealing with all of our money problem Finally, to all of those people who helped who were not even connecte with yearbook, Mr. Stone, Adam, Nola, Meg, Sally, and especially Dav thank you. It's been fun! ....By the way, has anyone seen "Bad Jane?"

No one knows why she did it. They guessed it was just a faze. Maybe was. But she was the only one who was sure. All they could tell was th she had a fantastic time, even though it took most of the year to finis Those last few nights nearly choked her the stench was so bad, but sh made it. No, they made it. Through all the fumbling, eating, and no sense, she clung to her lame stories, her stump of wax, and mo importantly, she clung to her party list which read: Most excelle salutations, invitations, and gratitude to: Heidi's friends Dave, Brian, an Johann, Amy's friends Adam, Stephanie, and Stuart, Lester's friends Kin Smell, and POGO, Ethan's friend Stone, Cally's friend Sall Dick'n'Hellyer, Shadi, Cheesedoodle, and Dorna's friends Momma M Rocko, and Rizzo, the darkroom's friend Heather, Eman and her friend H Sun, any of the staff that lifted a finger, and finally Mo's diety buddie Amy (Roxie) and Heidi (Goddess) who will provide their rendition of U2 SO CRUEL as entertainment.
The note was signed Perfecto with a post-script that read:I'm too sexy f this book!
